Latex for Windows. do not work with the latest version of Writer,.Bento Box - Star Wars Ship is very similar to the DSTF. It will be built by Inventor's Workspace. So the first thing that you need to do is run a scan for an Inventor's Workspace and call them. They will need a picture of the tool and part numbers. If you have a major tool part, you will need to find the part number for the tool (which is usually located on the side of the part). The part number has a capital and a lower case version. For example: SKU#1.1 and SKU#1.1A are the same part. The next step is to make sure you find the proper parts for your kit. Parts that you need you will need to order. Since you will be working with a kit, most of the parts you need will be on the shelf at the Inventor's Workspace. After you have called them to find out what parts you need, you then need to order them. You will need to use the part number that is listed in the point above. There are cases where Inventor's Workspace will need to try and find a part and they will let you know what they need to see if they can find it. If they cannot find it, they will let you know what they need to see if you can find the part. You will need to wait for them to get back to you. If they find that they can find the part, then you should have all your parts from the kit in your hand within a couple of days. They will need to photograph the kit. The kit is very similar to the DSTF. You will need to send them pictures of the parts. In my case, I needed the following parts. Tools: wrench #1 #1 jaw chuck (chain) #1/4" chuck cap wrenches 2mm hex wrenches 20mm socket (you will be using this most of the time) 10mm & 5mm sockets The kit will come with all of the parts for the basic kit (with the above parts
